

A Charity Event

One day at school, Steve's teacher said, 'Our school is going to donate some money to help the poor children in China. We have organized a charity walk and everyone can join the event. The money is used for buying some food and toys for the poor children.' Steve thought that this event was meaningful and fun so he joined the charity walk with his friend, Peter.

On the day of the charity walk, Steve arrived at school at nine o'clock. It was a sunny day. Steve and Peter went to the starting line of the charity walk. They were extremely excited about the walk. They took a group photo before they set off. During the walk, Peter felt very thirsty but he had drunk all the water in his water bottle. His face turned pale. Steve gave his water bottle to Peter immediately when he noticed him.

Peter felt better after drinking the water. He said, 'Thank you, my best friend!' At last, Steve and Peter finished the walk and raised a lot of money for the poor children. Steve learnt to care about others from this incident.
