

Betty's Good Idea

It is half past twelve in the afternoon. It's lunch time. Betty wants to eat sandwiches. Dad says, 'The fridge has a lot of tomatoes and ham but there is no bread.'

Then, Dad and Betty go to the bakery. They buy some bread. They go home happily.

Suddenly, on the way home, they see an old woman kneeling on the ground. Betty thinks the old woman is pitiful.

Betty gives the bread in her hand to the old woman. The old woman says, 'Thank you!' Dad says, 'Well done, Betty!' Although Betty does not have sandwiches, she feels happy because she helps the old woman.
