

Betty's Good Idea

It is half past twelve in the afternoon. Betty wants to eat ham and tomato sandwiches. There are ham and tomatoes in the fridge but there is no bread, so they go to the bakery to buy some bread.

In the bakery, they buy some fresh bread. They pay fifteen dollars for the fresh bread.

On the way home, they see a poor old woman. She looks hungry. Betty feels sad because the old woman is poor. Betty gives her some bread.

In the end, Betty doesn't have sandwiches to eat because she gives her bread to the old woman. However, she feels happy because she helps the old woman.
