

Betty's Good Idea

It's half past twelve in the afternoon, Betty and her dad are in the kitchen. Feeling hungry, Betty decides she wants a sandwich. There are tomatoes and ham in the fridge, but no bread. Dad suggests, "Let's go to the bakery to buy some bread." So, they set off together.

At the bakery, Dad buys the bread, and they both feel happy. On their way home, they notice a thin, weak, and hungry old woman sitting on the ground, looking for food. Betty feels sad and comes up with a thoughtful idea.

Once they arrive home, Betty and Dad prepare sandwiches. They cut one in half and return to the old woman to share it with her. Their small act of kindness brings joy to all of them.
