

Tom's Football Dream

One day, Tom watched a football match with his dad. He was amazed in the game. When the players won, they were all very happy and hugged their teammates. Tom thought, I want to be a football player when I grow up. I'm going to play and train well. A week later, the captain of the football team in Tom's school came to Tom's class and smiled, 'Tom, the football team is out of players. The couch welcome you.' Tom was super surprised. He became a player in the school team. But.....

Once at practice, Tom twisted his ankle. The couch sent him to a clinic near the school. The doctor told him, 'You twist your ankle. You can't play football for three months.' When Tom heard what the doctor told him. He cried all day. He cried, 'I can't practice football for three months. Other player can keep playing football and becoming better and better. What if I break my leg or my arm in the future. I will miss a lot of games!' when dad knew that, he walked to Tom's bad and said, 'Everybody will meet unhappy things when they are following their dreams. But if you give up, you will not able to do what you want to do.'

When Tome heard what dad said. His dream appeared again. He decided no matter how bad the thing is going, he will always follow his dream!
